This is very helpful. It came up from Bob as a problem BLM needed to fix, and if true I think I would likely agree. If I remember correctly, BLM reps stated that they were not intending the words to constitute mitigation. Bob was fairly adamant, but if you are not seeing this being used this way, we can probably set it aside. Thanks very much for looking.

I forwarded the question to Alex and this is his response. In short the terms are used throughout the documents, but not defined. I believe that Bob thinks these terms mean mitigation, but we need the translation in the form of a definition.

I received only the Chapter 2's for the Buffalo, Bighorn, and 9-Plan last week. I searched those three chapter 2's for the words "rectify" and "reclaim". The attached notes show the only uses for the words rectify and reclaim in the each of the chapter 2's respectively. I did not specifically see the statement anywhere that "Rectify and Reclaim constitutes mitigation." Maybe this would be a good question for BLM.

I only have the NV plan, which doesn't include those words. Have you guys seen them in any of the plans you've looked at.

MITIGATION: Bob Budd says that BLM language says that "rectify and reclaim" constitutes mitigation. Where is this? Is it really in there? WE should double check.
