Hi Anna,

I spoke with Jerry and forwarded him your email. He is still making up his mind, but he might contact you if he has questions. He is busy with the calving season, so if you don't hear anything from him immediately don't give up hope!

out on some of the tour and talk with Jerry one-on-one while I'm over there?

thanks,
Anna

Kristin,

I met Jerry Hoagland at the going away party for Meggan a few months back. Jerry impressed me with his stories of successful frog conservation and his with us on the sage grouse in the schools program-- I think this would make a wonderful feature story and would love to have an opportunity to interview Mr Hoagland. No more than 5-7 questions and Jerry would get to approve anything I write.

The interview would be in the form of a blog post. Our region uses Tumblr for our stories which allow the public to follow along and comment. We generally post about 1 story a week and use Facebook to direct traffic to the blog post. We have an active following of around 2,000 readers. We generally feature new stories on our Pacific Region homepage too, so the Q&A could be on there for a week or so too. There is also a National Greater sage grouse website that would likely feature the blog on their news feed which is updated weekly.

Greater sage grouse site: http://www.fws.gov/greatersagegrouse/
Pacific Region Homepage: http://www.fws.gov/pacific/

If possible, could you pass this information along to Jerry?

Thanks,
Anna
