Migratory Bird Treaty
Band Together for Birds

pledged to participate in a citizen science project.

By pledging to take action, you are playing a role in bird conservation and in keeping common birds common – in your backyard, at a park or at a national wildlife refuge. Many organizations, agencies and individuals are involved in bird conservation – we can't do it alone.The treaty and wildlife conservation were the result of people coming together to help birds at home and abroad. This year offers another opportunity to "band together for birds."
