Subject: Metric team update

The Service team working on the conservation efforts reporting framework and database concept sent a revised document to the Task Force team just before the shut down. We had to cancel the call that had been scheduled due to the shut down. We only received one set of comments after we back in the office this week. It does not appear that the States spent much time on this project while we were unavailable. The Service team is working on a revised draft based on the one set of comments and how the measures should be organized to facilitate development of the reporting database. We anticipate sending that document out this week and we have a call planned with the Task Force team next week. We plan to have a document ready by the end of next week so that the RISC Team can work on developing reporting metrics at their meeting the week of November 4.
