Can it be literal and not an acronym? Does it have to be one word?

I think it might be nice to have a time-stamp in the title to keep it clear that this isn't the 2010 review for people looking at this in ten years, so what about "2015 GR Sage-grouse Status Review"? It isn't real short, but I don't believe this will impact URLs that people would ever be typing (I think they'd just be clicking links).

Hi Kate,

During today's meeting we discussed going forward with setting up the LC MAP community for the SG listing data. We will need a name for it, and we wanted to get your input on what would be a politically savvy name. You can see examples of other group's names here: https://www.sciencebase.gov/catalog/community/list

Also, this community would not be visible to anyone but those given permission to it initially, but this could change as we move forward.
