Following the approval of Phase I of Jamestown S'Klallam Tribe's application for commercial aquaculture within the boundaries of Dungeness NWR, Clallam County requested the Hearings Examiner to provide a contingency if the Tribe, Audubon and USFWS cannot meet Condition #9 original approval (MOU). The Hearings Examiner amended the approval to include; "In the event that the Applicant is unable to reach an agreement with either party such that an MOU can be signed, the Clallam County Department of Community Development shall select an independent third-party to address the monitoring of shorebirds and waterfowl and the scientific approach that will be taken toward monitoring impacts of the proposal on the Refuge. The cost of this third-party review shall be paid by the Applicant".

Unless they are conducting all monitoring from outside the Refuge boundary, it would stand to reason that the monitoring effort would require an SUP.

No other requests for reconsideration were made that I am aware of.
