

Update on Water Quality Monitoring Effort – Under Construction

The federal and state agencies that serve on the Technical Advisory Group to the Secretary of the LDNR are cooperating to monitor water quality in the Atchafalaya Basin following the two recent hurricanes. The effort will last at least two weeks and will continue until conditions return to a pre-hurricane state.