

What You Need to Know About a U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service Import/Export License – Foreign Entities

Import/Export (I/E) Licenses are issued only by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (FWS) Office of Law Enforcement (OLE) and are issued to entities (companies or individuals) before they commercially import into or export from the United States shipments containing wildlife (including their parts and products). You should review Title 50 of the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) Parts 10, 13, and 14. You are responsible for reviewing and understanding these regulations before importing or exporting.

An I/E License can be issued to foreign entities (companies or individuals) that have no physical presence in the United States under certain circumstances. This is an uncommon scenario, and these entities will be required to designate a U.S. Agent.

What does “no physical presence” mean?

This means that all your buildings, warehouses, employees, inventory, manufacturing, distribution, etc., are all located outside the United States. The most common scenario we encounter is a foreign entity that enters the U.S. temporarily for a trade show and brings their wildlife items with them in their personal accompanying baggage.

When do I need to obtain my I/E License?

You are required to obtain your I/E License prior to commercially importing into or exporting from the United States shipments containing wildlife, their parts or products.

How do I use my I/E License?

If an I/E License is issued to your company, you will ensure that a copy of the I/E License is provided with each Declaration for Importation or Exportation of Fish or Wildlife (Form 3-177) document package submitted to FWS/OLE at time of shipment import or export. If you use a Customhouse broker to file with FWS/OLE, you should ensure that they have a copy of your I/E License to submit with your declaration package.

What is “wildlife”?

The Endangered Species Act (ESA) (16 U.S.C. §§ 1531-1544) defines the term “fish or wildlife” as “any member of the animal kingdom, including without limitation any mammal, fish, bird (including any migratory, nonmigratory, or endangered bird for which protection is also afforded by treaty or other international agreement), amphibian, reptile, mollusk, crustacean, arthropod or other invertebrate, and includes any part, product, egg, or offspring thereof, or the dead body or parts thereof.”

What is “commercial”?

Commercial means related to the offering for sale or resale, purchase, trade, barter, or the actual or intended transfer in the pursuit of gain or profit, of any item of wildlife and includes the use of any wildlife article as an exhibit for the purpose of soliciting sales, without regard to quantity or weight. There is a presumption that eight or more similar unused items are for commercial use. The Service or the importer/exporter may rebut this presumption based upon the particular facts and circumstances of each case (50 CFR 14.4).

Do I need an I/E License if I have any other FWS issued permits?

I/E Licenses are separate from any other permit that is issued by FWS (CITES, endangered species, migratory bird, etc.). Other FWS permits do not replace the necessity for an I/E License if you are importing/exporting wildlife shipments for commercial purposes.

DO I NEED AN IMPORT/EXPORT LICENSE?

Which animals are exempt from I/E License requirements?

- Certain domesticated animals (see table below):

FWS has a specific list of animals exempt from FWS import/export license regulations. However, if the specimens are obtained from wild populations (example: feral goats or pigs), or otherwise require a permit under 50 CFR Parts 15 (Wild Bird Conservation Act), 16 (Injurious Wildlife), 17 (Endangered Species), 18 (Marine Mammals), 21 (Migratory Bird), 22 (Bald and Golden Eagle), or 23 (Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Fauna and Flora (CITES)), then they fall under FWS jurisdiction and all importation, exportation, and transportation of wildlife regulations under 50 CFR 14 apply.

(NOTE: Live shellfish imported or exported for grow out or rearing facilities are not considered to be an import or export for human or animal consumption);

Which animals are exempt from I/E License requirements (continued)?

- Live farm-raised fish and farm-raised fish eggs that do not require a permit under 16, 17, or 23 (listed above) that meet the definition of “bred in captivity” (50 CFR 17.3).

I am a foreign supplier shipping to a U.S. importer.

No, a FWS I/E License is not required for the foreign supplier. I/E Licenses are restricted to those entities who are importing into or exporting from the United States or its territories. If a foreign supplier is shipping FWS regulated items to the United States via common carrier (e.g., air, ocean, rail, express courier, etc.), it is the entity located in the U.S. who has the responsibility to obtain an I/E License if the shipment is for commercial purposes.

Examples below are not a complete list:

- Foreign company ships to U.S. company via common carrier
- Foreign company ships to individual via common carrier
- Foreign taxidermist, outfitter or guide ships to U.S. hunter via common carrier

However, if a foreign supplier is bringing FWS regulated items with them into the U.S. (e.g., packed in accompanying baggage for a trade show), then they are considered the U.S. importer and must complete this application and designate a U.S. Agent.

I am a foreign consignee receiving wildlife items from a U.S. exporter.

No, a FWS I/E License is not required for the foreign receiver. I/E Licenses are restricted to those entities that are importing into or exporting from the United States or its territories. If a foreign entity is receiving FWS regulated items from the United States via common carrier, it is the U.S. exporter’s responsibility to obtain an import/export license if the shipment is for commercial purposes.

Examples below are not a complete list:

- U.S. company commercially ships to foreign company via common carrier (U.S. company needs the I/E License)
- Foreign company receives a shipment from an individual (if a commercial shipment, the U.S. individual would need I/E License)

However, if a foreign entity is carrying FWS regulated items with them from the U.S. (e.g., packed in accompanying baggage), then they are considered the U.S. exporter and required to declare the shipment to FWS/OLE. If the export is for commercial purposes, an I/E License is required and a U.S. Agent must be designated.

I am a foreign entity coming to the U.S. for a trade show.

Yes. If you are temporarily coming to the U.S. with wildlife items to sell or using wildlife items to solicit sales, you will be required to have a FWS I/E License and you must designate a U.S. Agent. NOTE: you will need to also declare these items at time of import and export to FWS/OLE.

Examples below are not a complete list:

- A representative of a foreign company travels to the U.S. (carrying samples in accompanying baggage) for a trade show to sell/deliver goods
- A representative of a foreign company travels to the U.S. carrying samples (in accompanying baggage) as gifts for potential customer(s)

I am a foreign entity delivering my client's order to them.

Yes. If you have a U.S. client that purchased wildlife items from you and a representative from your company is entering the U.S. to deliver the shipment to your client, you will need to obtain an I/E License and designate a U.S. Agent. NOTE: You would also be the FWS Importer on the Form 3-177 and would be responsible for declaring the shipment to FWS/OLE at time of import. The invoice(s) and any other shipping documents would be in your name going to your U.S. client.

I am a shipment consolidator located outside the U.S.

No. A FWS I/E License is not required if your business solely provides a service in which a number of smaller shipments (destined for the U.S.) belonging to third parties are combined and shipped together to benefit from better freight rates and security of cargo, you do not need an I/E License.

I am unsure if I fit any of these categories.

OTHER INFORMATION

What is the role of a U.S. Agent?

A U.S. Agent of an Import/Export Licensee is required to maintain complete and accurate records of any taking, possession, transportation, sale, purchase, barter, exportation or importation of wildlife for a period of five (5) years from the date of the expiration of their Import/Export License. Such records shall be kept current and shall include names and addresses of persons with whom any wildlife has been purchased, sold, bartered, or otherwise transferred, and the date of such transaction, and other information as may be required or appropriate. Such records shall be legibly written or reproducible in English. The U.S. Agent cannot be a retail postal or mail service center.

The U.S. Agent must provide their name, address and telephone number, and they must sign that they acknowledge and agree to comply with the specified requirements.

The U.S. Agent can apply for the I/E License on behalf of the foreign entity (with executed power of attorney).

Can anyone apply for an I/E License?

You must be at least 18 years of age in order to obtain an I/E License.

Can I have an I/E License if I don't import or export?

There is no reason for you to have an I/E License if you do not commercially import or export. This document does not convey any rights, benefits, or privileges beyond authorizing you to engage in business as an importer or exporter of wildlife. The I/E License is not recognized outside the United States. Renewals will be reviewed for import/export activity.

Can I have more than one I/E License?

Only 1 I/E License is allowed for a business.

Can I let someone else use my I/E License?

No. I/E Licenses are not transferable.

Can I use a photocopy of my I/E License?

Yes. A copy of your valid I/E License is required to be submitted with each Declaration for Importation or Exportation of Fish or Wildlife (Form 3-177) document package presented to Service Law Enforcement officers at time of import/export. We do not expect you to provide the original.

How long is my I/E License valid?

I/E Licenses are valid for up to one (1) year.

How much does my I/E License cost?

$100.00

How long does it take to get an I/E License?

In order to expedite the process, submit applications at least 60 calendar days prior to the date needed. Reminder: It is unlawful to commercially import or export without first obtaining a valid I/E License (50 CFR 14.91).

Can I be denied an I/E License?

Yes. Disqualifying factors that prohibit issuance of an I/E License are found at 50 CFR 13.21\(c\).

Can my I/E License be revoked or suspended at anytime?

Yes. In addition to criteria listed in 50 CFR 13.21, FWS/OLE may deny, suspend, revoke, restrict, or deny renewal of an I/E License under any of the following criteria:

- Failure to pay fees, penalties, or costs required by 50 CFR 14;
- You repeatedly fail to notify our Service officers at the appropriate designated port at least 48 hours prior to the estimated time of arrival of a live or perishable wildlife shipment under 50 CFR 14.54\(a\) or at least 48 hours prior to the estimated time of exportation of any wildlife under 50 CFR 14.54\(f\);
- You repeatedly import or export certain types of wildlife without meeting the requirements of the regulations.

Do I have to amend my I/E License when there are changes?

Yes. If there is a change in any information related to your I/E License (name, address, principal officer, etc.), you have 10 calendar days to notify the FWS/OLE issuing office in writing.

Do I need any other authorization to be a commercial importer/exporter?

Check with other Federal and local Agencies (U.S. Department of Agriculture, U.S. Public Health, etc.), as well as State and local municipal requirements for any additional authorizations to possess/trade wildlife in the State(s) you are visiting.
