Service Announces Notice of Funding Opportunity for the FY17 Tribal Wildlife Grants Program

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is announcing the notice of funding opportunity for the FY 2017 Tribal Wildlife Grants (TWG) program. The program provides a competitive funding opportunity for federally recognized tribal governments to develop and implement programs for the benefit of wildlife and their habitat, including species of Native American cultural or traditional importance and species that are not hunted or fished.

More than $72 million has gone to Native American tribes through the program since 2003, providing support for more than 420 tribal conservation projects. Past grants have enabled tribes to develop increased management capacity, improve and enhance relationships with partners (including state agencies), address cultural and environmental priorities, and heighten tribal students' interest in fisheries, wildlife and related fields of study. Grants have also been awarded to support recovery efforts for threatened and endangered species.

To be accepted, project proposals must be postmarked or received on or before September 2, 2016 and submitted to the appropriate service regional office.

Due to the highly competitive nature of TWG, applicants are encouraged to work with their regional Service Native American liaisons to develop proposals that best address the scoring criteria.

To view the notice of funding opportunity and related materials including requirements, regional office addresses and regional Native American liaisons, please visit <http://www.grants.gov/>, or <http://www.fws.gov/nativeamerican/grants.html>, or contact the Native American liaison in the Service's regional office in which the proposed project would occur.

Information on TWG is also available from the Office of the National Native American Programs Coordinator, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, 1211 SE Cardinal Court, Suite 100, Vancouver, WA 98683; telephone number (360) 604-2531.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service works with others to conserve, protect, and enhance fish, wildlife, plants, and their habitats for the continuing benefit of the American people.
