

NX Projects

Flickr Photos

Overview

This summer, get out into nature and see some wildlife – in your backyard, at a local park or on a nearby national wildlife refuge. You'll create family memories to last a lifetime, and if you take your digital camera, you can capture these memories and share them through a new Flickr group called "Let's Go Outside." Upload images of yourself, your family and friends outside in nature; use Flickr's Map function to identify where your photos were taken; blog about particular photos and your experiences in nature; and chat on the Flickr Discussion board with other group members about their favorite places to go. You can even upload images from your cell phone.

Materials

Camera
Flickr Maps

Computer
Cell Phone
Binoculars

Link

This Flickr group has been set up by the Dept. of Fish and Wildlife to share your photos:
<http://www.flickr.com/groups/letsgooutside/>