

NEW JERSEY FIELD OFFICE FIELD NOTES NOVEMBER 2014

The Musconetcong River Restoration Partnership met this month to review the 100 percent design plans for the removal of the Hughesville dam on the Musconetcong River. Completion of the final design is a major step toward removal of this dam, which is planned for late summer of 2015. Removal of the Hughesville Dam will be the fifth dam removed or disabled by the Partnership and will provide access to an additional two miles of river for spawning fish.
