

What you can do: Make sure you're not spreading AIS accidentally. Prevention tips and other helpful information can be found at "Protect Your Waters," a USFWS website with the latest tips and news about aquatic invaders. If you suspect you've found a new AIS, please report it by calling 1-877-STOPANS and a USFWS biologist will investigate. Learn about two AIS species in the Pacific region below and download printable ID cards to carry with you.

For more information: The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service also supports a nationwide network of aquatic invasive species experts to help coordinate with our regional and local partners. In the Pacific Region, Aquatic Invasive Species (AIS) staff include:
