with the risk information. The results of the Distraction Study indicate that presenting risk information at the same time in text and in audio improves consumers’ understanding of the risk information. The results of the Distraction Study did not find support for the idea that consumers’ understanding of the risk information is influenced by the emotional (affective) tone of visual images with the consistency of the visual images with the risk information on the screen during the major statement.

II. Comments

Interested persons may submit to the Division of Dockets Management (see ADDRESSES) either electronic or written comments regarding the Distraction Study as it relates to the proposed standards. It is only necessary to send one set of comments. Identify comments with the docket number found in brackets in the heading of this document and labeled “ATTN: Distraction Study.” The data and received comments may be seen in the Division of Dockets Management between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Leslie Kux,
Acting Assistant Commissioner for Policy.

Background

On November 8, 2011, we published a request for comments for consideration as we revise the regulations governing double-crested cormorant management (76 FR 69225). We requested comments on a variety of issues related to double-crested cormorants, and asked a number of questions for consideration as we develop a proposal to revise the regulations at 50 CFR 21.47 and 21.48. See that document for detailed information.

We have received requests from two Flyways for an extension of the comment period so that they may consider the regulations and management issues at their upcoming meetings. To accommodate these requests, we extend the comment period for an additional 60 days, until April 6, 2012.

Rachel Jacobson,
Acting, Assistant Secretary for Fish and Wildlife and Parks.
