

OFFICE OF THE SCIENCE ADVISOR WEB CONFERENCE SERIES

U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service
Thursday January 19th 2:30-4pm EST

Because science is always evolving, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service Office of the Science Advisor (OSA) Web Conference Seminar Series is designed to provide the latest cutting-edge scientific information and research. This series also highlights key OSA priorities, such as science integrity, the FWS Climate Change Strategy, Landscape Conservation Cooperatives, and Strategic Habitat Conservation. This program is being facilitated by the USFWS's National Conservation Training Center (NCTC).

“Science Capacity in the Fish & Wildlife Service: The Fish Technology Centers and The Fish Health Centers”

“The Fish Technology Centers”
Michael J. Millard, Ph.D.
Center Director
USFWS- Northeast Fishery Center

Description: Significant scientific and applied research capacity exists within the Fish and Wildlife Service in the integrated network of Fish Technology Centers (FTC) and Conservation Genetics Laboratories. This presentation provides an overview of the FTC capabilities and their alignment with emerging conservation priorities and landscape level approaches.

and

“The Fish Health Centers”
Teresa Lewis, Ph. D.
Project Leader/Supervisory Fish Biologist
USFWS-Dexter Fish Health Center

Description: This presentation will familiarize webinar participants with the Service's national network of Fish Health Centers, their Mission, and science capacity. An overview of applied research projects will be provided highlighting specific conservation efforts ongoing at each Center.

Thursday, January 19th, 2:30-4:00 PM EDT

YOU MUST REGISTER TO JOIN THIS WEBINAR NO LATER THAN WEDNESDAY 12 Noon EST JANUARY 18, 2012:
http://training.fws.gov/CSP/Resources/OSA/webinar_request.html

Once submitted, your name will be added to the registry for the webinar. Approximately 2 days in advance of the webinar, you will receive an email from Ashley_Fortune@fws.gov, with instructions on how to join the webinar using the WebEx software. You will NOT receive anything confirming your request prior to this.

If you have any questions regarding the Office of the Science Advisor webinars, please contact:

Ashley Fortune: 304.876.7361 or Ashley_Fortune@fws.gov