Lief,

We have done some minor word changes or added additional description on activities (foundations or blasting to excavate foundation holes) to help clarify some things. Basically the BMP document hasn't changed much from the version sent to the RISCT team which is why we want focus on the new section we added on "green light" activities right now. We can discuss entire document review during our call on Friday. Take care,

Jim Burruss

Hi Sherry and Jim,

I found this October 2014 version of the BMP document (following RISCT's review), and I'm wondering if anything has changed aside from the 7 pages sent for our Friday 'green light' discussion (and associated RISCT review). Regardless, in anticipation of the Service's review of the entire document, could I get a word-version of the document?

Thanks and talk with you on Friday,

LW

Greetings everyone,

San – thank you very much for coordinating the RISCT review of the electric utility sage-grouse BMP document. We have reviewed these comments and updated the document accordingly. Attached is a letter summarizing how each of the comments were addressed, and an updated final draft of the BMP document with the changes highlighted. Please pass these along to the RSCT members that reviewed the BMP draft, as well as others within the group that may be interested. On behalf of APLIC, please also extend our thanks to those that reviewed the draft – we sincerely appreciate the group’s input, as it has helped to strengthen the document.

In order to determine next steps needed to finalize the document, particularly in regards to USFWS as a collaborator, I would like to schedule a call to discuss in the next few weeks. Please use this doodle poll to indicate your availability for a call:

Thanks to everyone for their work in the development of this document. I am very excited to see it move forward!
