SEA OTTER OPEN HOUSES

We want to hear from you

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is hosting public open houses with communities in Northern California and Oregon this June to explore the concept of reintroducing sea otters to portions of the coast where they have been absent for more than a century.

- Gather public input and information to help inform next steps
- Scientists will share information and answer questions from the public
- Discuss issues that matter to you and share your suggestions
- Stop by any time during the open house hours
