

Pinckney Island National Wildlife Refuge

Hunting Regulations

Welcome

Managed by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, this 4,053-acre refuge includes Pinckney Island, Corn Island, Big and Little Harry Islands, Buzzard Island, and numerous small hammocks. Pinckney is the largest of the islands and the only one open to public use. These lands were donated to the federal government in 1975 by private landowners for the sole purpose of preserving their wildlife resources. Nearly 67% of the refuge consists of salt marsh and tidal creeks. However, a wide variety of land types, including forests, grasslands, and freshwater ponds, is found on Pinckney Island. In combination, these habitats support a diversity of wildlife species.
