Non-native house mice threaten native seabirds as well as endemic salamanders, crickets, and plants. The mice attract Burrowing Owls, that prey on Ashy Storm-Petrels and Leach's Storm Petrels, after the mouse population seasonally crashes, pushing the storm-petrels on a population trajectory towards extinction. Mice also eat other species. Nearly half of the world's population of the rare Ashy Storm Petrel nests on the Farallones. A major decision is pending.
