Dear Ms. Brown:

This is a response to your Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request dated June 25, 2021 and assigned tracking number DOI-FWS-2021-004716. Please cite this number in any future communications with our office regarding your request. You are generally seeking information regarding specific documents about the “East Collier HCP” or “Eastern Collier HCP”.

Response

For this second and final response, one pdf binder, consisting of 263 pages are being released to you in part. Based on this office’s review, we reasonably foresee that disclosure of certain information in documents that fall under this request would harm an interest protected by one or more of the nine exemptions to the FOIA’s general rule of disclosure. Accordingly, from the responsive records, portions of these materials are being withheld in part pursuant to FOIA Exemption (b)(5) which allows an agency to withhold “inter-agency or intra-agency memorandums or letters which would not be available by law to a party... in litigation with the agency.” (5 U.S.C. § 552(b)(5)). Exemption 5 therefore incorporates the privileges that protect materials from discovery in litigation, including the deliberative process, attorney work-product, attorney-client, and commercial information privileges. We are withholding 163 pages in part under Exemption 5 because they qualify to be withheld both because they meet the Exemption 5 threshold of being inter-agency or intra-agency and under the following privilege:

The Deliberative Process Privilege

The deliberative process privilege protects the decision-making process of government agencies and encourages the frank exchange of ideas on legal or policy matters by ensuring agencies are not forced to operate in a fishbowl. A number of policy purposes have been attributed to the deliberative process privilege. Among the most important are to: (1) assure that subordinates will feel free to provide the decision maker with their uninhibited opinions and recommendations; (2) protect against premature disclosure of proposed policies; and (3) protect against confusing the issues and misleading the public.

The deliberative process privilege protects materials that are both predecisional and deliberative. The privilege covers records that reflect the give-and-take of the consultative process and may include recommendations, draft documents, proposals, suggestions, and other subjective documents which reflect the personal opinions of the writer rather than the policy of the agency. The deliberative process privilege does not apply to records created 25 years or more before the date on which the records were requested. None of the records here were created prior to 25 years from the request date.

Under the deliberative process privilege of Exemption 5, 163 pages are partially redacted that are both predecisional and deliberative. They do not contain or represent formal or informal agency policies or decisions. They are the result of frank and open discussions among employees of the Department of the Interior. Their contents have been held confidential by all parties and public dissemination of these drafts would have a chilling effect on the agency's deliberative processes expose the agency's decision-making process in such a way as to discourage candid discussion within the agency, and thereby undermine its ability to perform its mandated functions.

The undersigned is responsible for this denial. This decision was made in consultation with Brigitte J. Beaton, Attorney-Advisor, Office of the Solicitor.

Conclusion

For your information, Congress excluded three discrete categories of law enforcement and national security records from the requirements of FOIA. See 5 U.S.C. 552\(c\). This response is limited to those records that are subject to the requirements of FOIA. This is a standard notification that is given to all our requesters and should not be taken as an indication that excluded records do, or do not, exist.

This is our final response and closes your request DOI-FWS-2021-004716.
