Yeah the fence looked a little battle worn.

Thanks Chris. I think the temporary fence would have actually taken the brunt of any larger pieces, but smaller projectiles could have made it through.

Thanks again,

Steve

Ok, sure thing. I did actually glance at it and did not see any obvious damage but I will see about getting you a pic.

Chris,

Next time you are out at the SpaceX launch site, can you snap me some pics of the granite historical marker? I have pics from the Sunday before the launch that I would like to compare to determine if it had any damage from concrete strikes. Also, can you let me know if the Civil War Trail sign across the street from the tank farm at the launch site is intact?

Thanks,

Steve
