Dear Mr. Lipton:

The United States Fish and Wildlife Service (FWS) Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) office received your request dated November 1, 2023 and assigned it tracking number DOI-FWS-2024-000099. Please cite this number in any future communications with our office regarding your request. You have requested the following:

...copies of all email and other written correspondence, including photographs from Oct 1, 2023, through Nov 1, 2023, or the date of the response to this request, whichever is later, between FAA and Fish and Wildlife as it relates to SpaceX and the Boca Chica and a plan for a Starship launch at the Texas site.

Response

For this final response, we processed 13 records (750 pages). Seven records (741 pages) are being released to you in full. Six records (9 pages) include redactions under FOIA “Exemption 6”. A File Share link to access responsive documents will be provided to you in a separate email.

Exemption 6—43 C.F.R. §§ 2.23, .24

Exemption 6 allows an agency to withhold “personnel and medical files and similar files the disclosure of which would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.” 5 U.S.C. § 552(b)(6). We are withholding six records in part under Exemption 6.

The phrase “similar files” covers any agency records containing information about a particular individual that can be identified as applying to that individual. To determine whether releasing records containing information about a particular individual would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy, we are required to balance the privacy interest that would be affected by disclosure against any public interest in the information.

Under the FOIA, the only relevant public interest to consider under the exemption is the extent to which the information sought would shed light on an agency’s performance of its statutory duties or otherwise let citizens ‘know what their government is up to. The burden is on the requester to establish that disclosure would serve the public interest. When the privacy interest at stake and the public interest in disclosure have been determined, the two competing interests must be weighed against one another to determine which is the greater result of disclosure: the harm to personal privacy or the benefit to the public. The purposes for which the request for information is made do not impact this balancing test, as a release of information requested under the FOIA constitutes a release to the general public.

The information that has been withheld under Exemption 6 consists of names and email addresses, and we have determined that the individuals to whom this information pertains have a substantial privacy interest in withholding it. Additionally, you have not provided information that explains a relevant public interest under the FOIA in the disclosure of this personal information and we have determined that the disclosure of this information would shed little or no light on the performance of the agency's statutory duties. Because the harm to personal privacy is greater than whatever public interest may be served by disclosure, release of the information would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of the privacy of these individuals, and we are withholding it under Exemption 6.

The decision to withhold this information was made by the undersigned and approved by Stacey Cummins, FWS FOIA Officer, Division of Information Resources & Technology Management (IRTM). Joan Marsan, Attorney Adviser, in the Office of the Solicitor was consulted.

Conclusion

For your information, Congress excluded three discrete categories of law enforcement and national security records from the requirements of FOIA. See 5 U.S.C. 552\(c\). This response is limited to those records that are subject to the requirements of FOIA. This is a standard notification that is given to all our requesters and should not be taken as an indication that excluded records do, or do not, exist.

This is our final response and closes your request DOI-FWS-2024-00099. If you have any questions about our response to your request, you may contact me at
