I would recommend looking at the rule (now public). It includes a figure (Figure 1?) which lists percentages allowed. This will be incorporated into State regulations. That said, Jennifer (cc'd) may have additional info or perspective to add.

That management will include mortality limits. Are those management mortality numbers available? A FWS friend who works with agencies and grizzlies in Idaho was wondering cause it sounds like the proposed rule says "To be added upon finalization". Is this something that won't be finalized/inserted until after public comment is received?
