There will definitely be requests for extension of the comment period, especially since we are asking for comment on 3 documents this time. Last time we delisted we only had the proposed rule to comment on and had a 90 day comment period. We received a request for an extra 30 days, so the comment period ended up being 120 days from the Fed Reg publication date.

Also as far as the timeline I changed the numbers to reflect how much time (in parenthesis) that they will have to perform each task—so basically they have roughly 45 days after we award the TASK Order or a drop dead date of May 10,-- This may be unreasonable --- especially when we consider that it will take at least 2 weeks to award a TASK Order after I issue the request for Proposal. I can't issue the request for them to price it until I have a Requisition; and I am gone starting Monday and not returning until March 23. So let's say I issue it March 23, -- two weeks to get their proposal puts it at April 7,2016. If the price is reasonable then another day to award it; April 8, -- 45 days from April 8th is May 23 or 24. So as you can see May 10th or 11th may be impossible.

I will be at meeting this morning until 10:00 I will call you to discuss when I get back.

Hi Steve,

Here is a draft SOW. We have to run things by Matt and HQ but in the meantime, I'd like to see if it is meeting the needs. I have some questions imbedded for you.

thanks for your help,

Marj
