Hi Michel,

Thanks for confirming that we are following the right procedure. My apologies for double-sending comments! We will try to double check on our end before sending them your way.

Have a great weekend,
Alex

been uploading them into Regulations.gov. This way, when we do a bulk download for our second comment analysis period, the late comments will be part of that bulk download. Does that sound correct, Michel?

Subject: Grizzly Bears of Montana

Sally,

I live in the great state of Montana and am a avid animal activist. I am writing to you to plead the case of leaving grizzly bears on the Endangered Species list. They are part of our ecosystem and need to stay on the list until their numbers multiply further. I'm sure there are ranchers that are adamant about being able to shoot a grizzly on sight because of their livestock, forgive me but nature involves survival of the fittest. Which brings me to the wolf poplulation as well. Grizzlies and wolves are predators and have to have a food supply as well and it is not their fault that they migrate and might stumble upon a herd of cattle to prey upon. That's what "they" do and should NOT be condemned for it.

Sincerely,
Sandra M. Granger
