I just came from a meeting with the chairman of the tribal council's fish and game committee. He is setting up a meeting with the committee and then the entire council to get a letter of support for delisting grizzly bears. The GOAL thing happens when 1 past council member who I didn't even know was representing the tribe on the MT-WY Tribal leaders group either doesn't know what the heck he's doing or goes along with the flow of anti-federal government stuff or who knows what. This will give me the chance to get the whole council up to speed on delisting, I know it sounds crazy but that has not happened in over a year. I would say that you can rest assured that the Blackfeet Tribal Council supports grizzly delisting, and I would probably bet a paycheck on that, but then I don't feel very confident in anything around here anymore. I will let you know what's up.

The Cut Bank office of the USDA is contacting the Bozeman office and running the grain bin issue up the ladder some.
