B&C Supports Grizzly Delisting

We welcome today's U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service proposal to return the Greater Yellowstone Ecosystem grizzly bear to state management as a recovered species. Restoring the bear to this point is a high achievement of state, federal, and tribal experts working together since the 1980s, and we commend especially the Interagency Grizzly Bear Committee for a job well done.

The strong biological evidence that Greater Yellowstone Ecosystem grizzly bears are recovered clearly justifies today's proposal, and we will join in the process of reviewing the proposal for certainty that recovery will hold before a final delisting decision is made.

We will work closely with other conservation leaders to insist on continued interagency cooperation that sustains a stable grizzly population, manages conflicts between bears and people, and employs ethical, scientifically-regulated hunting to the extent that it serves management goals and promotes respect for the grizzly and its conservation.

Record Number of B&C Trophies on Display

The Boone and Crockett Club is projecting to see the most trophies in its history to be put on public exhibit during its 29th Big Game Awards this summer in Springfield, Missouri.

"In over 68 years of hosting these triennial Awards events this will be the most trophies we've ever had participate," said Justin Spring, the Club's Director of Big Game Records.

One of North America's longest-running celebrations of big-game conservation and management, the Boone and Crockett Club 29th Big Game Awards events and banquets are scheduled for July 14-16, 2016, but a viewing of these exceptional animals will be on public display from May 6 to July 31.

Fair Chase Essay Contest Speaks Volumes, Winner Announced

The Boone and Crockett Club, Blaser USA and Leupold and Stevens are pleased to announce the winner of the Fair Chase Essay Contest conducted online last fall.

"We suspected this would be popular, but had no idea just how popular," said Keith Balfour, the Club's director of marketing.

This amazing book is a must-have for TR fans!

Please support these Trailblazers in Conservation and their commitments to conservation.
More information.

Simply put, the contest asked one question, what does fair chase mean to you? The Club received over two hundred responses in a short time. Two winners would be selected. One for the best essay and one, a random draw from all the media partners who promoted this contest.

SHARE Act Passes The House

With the bipartisan passage of HR 2406, the Sportsmen's Heritage and Recreational Enhancement (SHARE) Act, in the House of Representatives, the Boone and Crockett Club reflects on the importance of conservation legislation. The Club and many other conservation groups support the SHARE Act for its sportsmen's titles that will help ensure outdoor hunting traditions are preserved, protected and promoted.

"Conservation is a complex business. It always has been," said Bob Model, Chairman of the Boone and Crockett Club. "Like most things worthwhile to people, wildlife and their habitats, it takes principled, common sense legislation to make things happen."

The Club has a long history in shaping new laws for conservation and proposing beneficial legislation, while blocking ill-advised regulations that inhibit conservation efforts.

'Controversial' Antelope Island Mule Deer Permit Sells for World Record $410K Bid

Attendees of the Friday night auction at the 10th annual Western Hunting and Conservation Expo didn't just enjoy dinner and a keynote speech by "American Sniper" wife, Taya Kyle—they also witnessed a world record.

The coveted Antelope Island State Park mule deer permit was the last item to sell at Friday night's auction and went for an astounding $410,000, becoming the new world record for the most money paid for a mule deer hunting permit. The same permit held the previous world record after it sold for $390,000 at the 2015 auction.
