Your response gives me hope because I get a lot of questions about this dude. Keep up the good work - all of you. And I am truly sorry that people like Jess have to ruin and otherwise excellent program.

Happy Holidays to all of you too,

Just as a FYI to your question. Jess is not associated with the Mexican Wolf Project or Mexican Wolf Recovery. He is a Catron County employee that ranchers ask to be present at these investigations.

Happy Thanksgiving. Hope you and Jenny are doing well.

Cheers,

John

Hi All

Forgive me for asking but how does this piece of (&^$#^%$ humanity get away with operating within the framework of Mexican wolf recovery? Seriously?
