Hi Betty,

I was unable to find the powerpoint presentation given by Chris Stremer that I attended in July. In my searching I did come across a magazine article about the process of tracking "Buddy" that was written this summer and states that the last camera sighting was on March 17, 2017. The article interviews a variety of experts including Chris. The link to the article is below. Hopefully Chris will get back to you soon so that you can have a better reference from the source.
