Oh, and to more specifically answer your question:

"I'm thinking of a climate change related contractor piece that fit into a past SSA that you thought was really good. Something they could go off of? Not sure if you have something like this or not?"

I don't think I have experience with anything like this specifically for climate change. Mostly just genetics.

Craig.

Hi John:

Apologies for missing you.

The Preble's SEI report comes to mind, but I must caution that it's rather old (2003), but I think it's still probably a good example. I've attached. Take a look and see what you think.

I'll think of some other ones here in a bit too, I'm sure.

Craig.

Hi Craig. I stopped by, but you weren't in your office. I have a question. Do you have a really nice example of a outside contractor project write up that NOAA/CU could use as a template for writing up their snowpack analysis for the wolverine?

Many thanks,
