So, I called Kevin McKelvey and it worked, he put the genetics lab director on for me and I spoke to her. She is going to be sending me an email with their micro-satellite panel and the associated costs as well as the number of samples they currently have from the states. So, I should get an estimate here soon.

By the way, she said I was the second FWS employee she had talked to recently that had been inquiring about costs of genetic analysis for wolverines. She could not remember the other person she had talked to or where he was from.
