

ENDANGERED SPECIES DAY

Saturday, May 15

10am-2pm

At the BioPark's ZOO, AQUARIUM, and BOTANIC GARDEN

Endangered Species Day is an opportunity for people young and old to learn about the importance of protecting endangered species and everyday actions that people can take to help save our world's disappearing wildlife. Visit discovery stations at the Zoo, Aquarium and Botanic Garden to learn about endangered species, find out what the BioPark is doing to help and how you can be part of the solution. Talk with US Fish and Wildlife Service biologists and staff to find out how they work to conserve, protect and restore species and their habitats, and pick up posters, activity books and other informational handouts.

For more information, please call (505) 764-6214.

The BioPark is a division of the City of Albuquerque's Cultural Services Department. For general information, please call (505) 768-2000 or 311 locally, Relay NM or 711, or visit www.cabq.gov/biopark.
