Using the Blind—things you need to know

- The refuge is open daily from dawn to dusk.
- Park at the main visitor entrance at 19255 SW Pacific Hwy (99W), Sherwood, OR.
- A year-round walking trail leaves from the main parking lot. Near the end of this 1 mile long trail is a short, 0.2 mile long spur trail that leads to the blind. The year-round trail and photo blind trail are relatively flat and fully accessible. Photographers must use the established trails to access the blind. No off-trail use is allowed. A series of seasonal trails are open from May 1st – September 30th; you may use these trails to access the blind during these times. The seasonal trails are uneven, gravel roads.
- Approach the blind quietly and slowly. You will minimize wildlife disturbance and maximize your wildlife photography opportunities.
- Walking only—no jogging, driving, or bicycling. Pets are not allowed anywhere on the refuge.
- Visitors needing special assistance accessing the blind will be accommodated. Call the refuge for more details.
- Restrooms are located in the parking area only. There are no restrooms along the trail. Please plan accordingly. If you take a break, please leave and return to the blind quietly.
- All refuge regulations posted at trailheads and along trails must be observed.
