Welcome to Flint Hills National Wildlife Refuge
Flint Hills National Wildlife Refuge (NWR) is located in the flood plain of Neosho River valley. This 18,500 acre Refuge was established in 1966 as an ‘overlay project’ on the John Redmond Reservoir Project, a U.S. Army Corps of Engineers flood control reservoir. Portions of the land and waters are managed by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

This Refuge is one of over 565 refuges in the National Wildlife Refuge System, a network of lands and waters set aside to conserve animals and their habitats for people today and for generations to come.

Hunting Regulations
Only legal take of game in season is allowed. All hunters must have an annual Refuge Hunting Permit (Hunting Permit) on their person while hunting. This brochure is also available online at https://www.fws.gov/refuge/flint_hills.

Additional Refuge-specific regulations are outlined in this brochure and in Title 50 CFR. All commercial activities, including guided hunts, are prohibited.

Hours
Hunting hours are the same as those set in State regulations.

Access
Only licensed vehicles are allowed on designated Refuge roads, as shown on the map. Parking must not impede traffic. Hunters can park in designated areas and along the shoulder of Refuge roads within one car width from the nearest edge of the road. No parking is allowed in front of gates. Accessing hunting areas from the Neosho River and hunting on the river is prohibited.

Closed Areas
All Refuge lands north of the Neosho River are closed to all public entry from November 1 to March 1 to provide sanctuary for migratory birds. Refer to the map for these areas. All of the Neosho River is closed to hunting and cannot be used to access hunting areas.

Game Retrieval
Reasonable effort must be made to retrieve harvested game. Dogs can be used to retrieve game. We prohibit hunters or dogs from retrieving game in areas closed to hunting.

Specific Hunting Regulations  State hunting regulations apply unless otherwise listed.
