Welcome

This goose, designed by J. N. "Ding" Darling, has become the symbol of the National Wildlife Refuge System.

Red Rock Lakes National Wildlife Refuge was established in 1935 to protect the rare trumpeter swan and migratory birds. Today, the Refuge continues to be one of the most important breeding areas in the Greater Yellowstone Area for these majestic birds.

Managed by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Refuges are a system of public lands and waters set aside to conserve America's fish, wildlife and plants. Since its inception, the System has grown to more than 150 million acres, 552 national wildlife refuges and other units of the Refuge System, plus 37 wetland management districts.

The refuge office is open Monday through Friday from 8:00 am to 4:30 pm, except on Federal Holidays.

For your safety, please observe all of the regulations covered in this brochure. See the Refuge general brochure for additional regulations and information.
