

The Hanford Reach National Monument is divided into five distinct administrative units and is managed by two federal agencies—the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service and the U.S. Department of Energy. The Saddle Mountain Unit (USFWS), the northern tip of the Columbia River Corridor (between the Wahluke Unit and the Columbia River near Highway 243), the eastern part of the Wahluke Unit and the Columbia River Corridor together offer more than 70,000 acres of scenic viewing and public access.
