

Caribou Island Cabin

Updated: December 20, 2013

Overview:

Caribou Island cabin is a historic log cabin built in the early 1900's and restored in 2003. The 14' x 17' foot log cabin sleeps four people comfortably. It is equipped with two bunk beds, table with benches, broom, shovel, water bucket, fire extinguisher, established campfire ring and a wood stove for heat. An outdoor toilet is provided.

Visitors will need to bring their own water for drinking, cooking and cleaning purposes. Water taken from the lake must be treated or boiled prior to consumption.

Visitors will need to bring their own bedding and sleeping pads, cooking gear and utensils among other necessities. All garbage and food must be packed out. Firewood is limited in the area and it is recommended to bring in your own dry firewood with you.

Recreation Opportunities:

This cabin offers seclusion, hunting, sightseeing, wildlife viewing, exploring and fishing. The area is home to a variety of wildlife, including moose, black and brown bears and wolves. In the winter there is cross-county skiing and snowshoeing. Review Alaska Department of Fish and Game hunting and fishing regulations for more details.

Special Considerations

The seclusion of this cabin necessitates being prepared for emergency situations. Inclement weather may cause an unexpected extension of the trip. Tustumena Lake is a large glacial lake with recurring high wave situations. The shore is exposed to southerly winds; large waves could swamp boats not pulled out on the beach; there is little beach area available during high water. Due to the size of Tustumena Lake, thick ice does not form until late in the winter season and the lake may reopen during warmer winter temperatures. Bringing a personal cooking stove is recommended. Carry in potable water or boil surface water 5 minutes before drinking. Remember to pack out your trash. Enjoy, but help protect this historical building.
